The Professional Man---

The professional man is a builder of bridges and bodies, a girder of continents and a director of institutions for the relief of suffering. He is highly specialized individual, the physician, the engineer, the lawyer, the clergyman and men of that character. In his head, he carries the knowledge and experience that are the fruits of years of training and study. Clear eyed, scientific and practical, he is fully alive to the importance of orderly and thrifty finance. Too busy himself to attend to financial details, too far-sighted to let them go unchecked, he relies upon a dependable bank for the protection and advancements of his financial interests. Professional men rely on us—our facilities are adapted to their needs as well as to those of all others who require the fiduciary functions of a modern banking institution.

GLENDALE WOMAN'S CLUB IN INTERESTING MEETING OCTOBER 13

GLENDALE, Oct. 9.—The Glendale Woman's club will hold its opening meeting on Wednesday, October 13. Every member is urged to be present. The finance committee from the trustees will make a report on final payment and it is hoped that in the near future that one of the numbers on the program will be burning a mortgage, at the same time the year's work will be outlined, and everyone is requested to be ready with some suggestions along that line. Lucy M. Walters, president.

Hold Desert Picnic
Some of the young people of Glendale journeyed out on the desert Friday night for a wicker roast. Those who enjoyed the outing were Mr. and Mrs. McGowan, Miss Ethel Inman, Mrs. Nancy Blocker, Miss Hazel Spillman, Miss Eva Brewster, Virgil Brown, Carl Betts and Louis Laenzby.

Entertain Young People
Rev. and Mrs. C. M. Northrup entertained the young people of the Baptist church with a tacky party Friday night at the parsonage. There were about 75 present and some very unique costumes were worn. Ice cream and cake were served and games on the lawn made it a most enjoyable affair.

Bridge Party
Mrs. Frank Patterson entertained at bridge Friday. There were six tables and prizes were won by Mrs. Merle Connor and Mrs. Laura Payson. After the game a dainty two-course luncheon was served.

Enjoy Dance
The dance given by the American Legion at the W. O. W. hall was a most enjoyable affair and a large crowd was present to make it most successful. Everyone says that they wish that many more such dances are forthcoming during the year.

Engineer in Glendale
Harry Hancock of Phoenix and city engineer of Glendale was in town Saturday, having brought over the new maps showing the alterations made and giving the grades of the different streets.

Rousing Meeting
Mrs. J. F. Lewis, chairman of the Woman's G. O. P. reported a rousing meeting of the Republican ladies at the club house Friday afternoon.

Baseball
The Glendale Greys will play the Mesa Saints at Mesa Sunday afternoon 3 o'clock. A good game is expected as Glendale has materially strengthened their team and the south side boys, after a long rest, are out for a win, so a good game will no doubt be played.

Roll Call Meeting
The W. O. W. lodge of Glendale will hold its annual roll call meeting on Tuesday, October 19. All members are urged to be present, and if not to make a statement in writing as to their absence. Immediately following the meeting there will be a "quail stew" and those who miss this will miss one of the finest treats of the season.

Personals
Mr. and Mrs. Claude Wingate were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Guy Sheets on Saturday.

Miss Idell Ingram of the Tempe Normal school is home for the week end. The junior class of the high school invited a friend each and enjoyed a wicker roast on the desert Saturday night.

Miss Virginia Humphries entertained a few of her little friends at her home in Catlin court Saturday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Miller of Wickenburg are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. B. H. McLain.

Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Harris of Phoenix have moved into the McElroy cottage recently vacated by Frank Moore.

CITY BAND CONCERT AT LIBRARY PARK TODAY

The Don Quixote suite, founded on the famous work of Cervantes, will be a feature of the City band's concert at Library park at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon. Of the four parts of the suite, the first three are characteristic, while the fourth is rather descriptive, following the hero in his knight errant inclined adventures.

Following is the program for this afternoon's concert:

Aida March from Verdi opera...Verdi
Don Quixote, a suite in four parts...Safranek
1. A Spanish Village.
2. Sancho Panza.
3. Dulcinea.
4. Don Quixote.
Melodie, Amos...Hernes
15 minute intermission
Selection from Faust...Gounod
Desertana, Oriental Fox Trot, Kleckman
Le Veda...Alden

The Age of Insurance

In no respect does the present age so differ from the centuries that have preceded it than in the universality, the commonplaceness, of insurance, and the important position which this giant business occupies in modern affairs is shown in a startling manner in a resume of its year's business as recently published by one of the largest companies.

The total amount of outstanding insurance, we are told, for this one company is $5,343,662,424—an amount which the mind cannot comprehend and which would be almost unthinkable to our fathers. More than five thousand million dollars—a sum which in itself is sufficient to stamp the company as one of the mightiest in the world. But it is not the amount which causes the imagination to halt as much as the reasons for its being. This huge sum is due to the policy holders in the event that evil befalls them, and, in a particular manner, that evil, such as sickness and death, whose pangs cannot all be alleviated, it is true, by financial assistance, but which can be lightened to some extent by the good which is inherent in the insurance idea. Indeed, it is not too much to say that insurance, perhaps more than any other agency, has been responsible for the general advancement of the race as whole throughout the world.

It has taken the place of organized or unorganized charity to a great extent, and it has proved its worth in that it makes the beneficiary, in the majority of cases, the contributor to his own welfare, while at the same time it inculcates ideals of thrift and care for the future which otherwise would be almost entirely disregarded.

How widespread the idea has become is also shown in this report, which carries the information that in this one company the total number of policy holders is more than 20,000,000, or one-sixth of the population of the United States. Surely this is an empire in itself—an empire which is founded upon the broadest principles of philanthropy, although clothed in the drab garments of business, and which numbers among its subjects only those who are devoted to the cult of taking care of the future in the present, and of preparing for the rainy day when the sun is bright and the sky cloudless.

Note:—The above editorial bespeaks the high character, stability and possibilities of the Life Insurance business, and amply justifies the organization and support of a Home Company.
The system used (like banking) is just the same in Arizona as in New York.

The White Man's Friends

In spite of the fact that the Indians in the above picture taken in Phoenix some thirty years ago, look mean and devilish they were among the best friends the white man ever had in Arizona. If it had not been for the friendly Pimas this country would have been held back for a long time. They fought the Apache with a fury born of generations of hatred. The white man was enabled to sow the seeds of civilization while little bands of Pimas like the above were foraging through the hills keeping the dreaded Apache at bay.
